

8 KPAX.com

Sponsored By:

SITE

Posted: May 27, 2015 1:10 PM MDT

Updated: May 27, 2015 7:56 PM MDT

By MTN News CONNECT

COLUMBIA FALLS - The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is currently taking public comment about putting the closed Columbia Falls Aluminum Company site for National Priority Listing, also known as Superfund.

Residents have until Tuesday, June 2 to comment on the proposed Superfund listing. The EPA's decision to put the now closed company on the cleanup list is the first step toward designation.

Rob Parker with the EPA told MTN News last month that the EPA has begun testing the area and have found contaminants in the groundwater near CFAC.

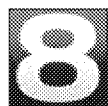

He says once they complete their investigate and determine cleanup options, they will have a clearer picture on the timing when the cleanup will take place.

Click here to submit comments on the plan.

RELATED: CFAC responds to Bullock request for Superfund listing

Search Local Businesses
SEARCH FOR IT HERE
Search

LIKE US ON FACEBOOK

KPAX-TV

Like 50,014

@kpaxnews

FOLLOW US ON TWITTER

Follow @kpaxnews

NEWSWEATHER
PHOTOSSPORTS
VIDEOSCOMMUNITY
ON KPAXABOUT US*CAREERS*CONTESTS

Can't find something?

© KPAX.com 2015,
KPAX.com
All rights reserved
Privacy Policy | [Terms of
Service](#) | Site Map

ADVERTISE WITH US
CLOSED CAPTIONING

SEARCH FOR IT HERE

Search